Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

Medical Arts Publishing Foundation was a brainchild of Dr. R. Lee Clark, president of M.D. Anderson Cancer Research Center (1946-1978). Through collaboration between Dr. Clark and Russell W. Cumley, the publishing company developed the Cancer Bulletin in 1948 as a fun, visual and entertaining medical journals to draw attention to the history of cancer research. Their initial vision was to create a “highly readable pictorial magazine for the general practitioner” that would increase early diagnosis of cancer. Other publications, Heart Bulletin in 1952 and Psychiatric Bulletin in 1951, followed that highlighted the history and studies in cardiology and psychiatry. Each publication had its own distinct style and motif. Joe Schwarting was the Art Director and principle artist for all publications. The group of artists were based international and locally in Houston. Other artists include Eva Marie Schubart, Imelda Schubart, Peter Spier, Joe Spire, George Shackelford, Mary Shackelford, and Joseph Doeve. Medical Arts Publishing Foundation also published the regional journal, Medical Record and Annuals, with Joe Schwarting creating the cover art.

Custodial history

Deed-1

Scope and content

The Medical Arts Publishing Foundation records equal 86 cubic feet and contain roughly 1100 items of artwork plus administrative records. Items are housed in 17 document boxes, 49 oversize boxes, map drawer, and framed items. It consists of drawings, paintings, sketches, printed images, and artist notes depicting historical and 20th century figures in the history of cardiology, cancer research, psychiatry, and Texas medicine. The records and artwork demonstrate the artistry, planning, production, and evolution of an art department for a magazine publishing company from 1948 - 1980.

Subseries IC094-S3ss1: Subseries I: Cover Art; 1952 - 1970

Scope and content: Scope and Content Note: This series contains the artwork used for The Heart Bulletin front and back covers. The artworks are original hand-drawn illustrations and paintings, unless otherwise noted. Front cover artwork that was painted on canvas has been placed in separate boxes. The back cover artwork for The Heart Bulletin featured cartoon drawings of a red artery and a blue vein accompanied by a quote about cardiovascular theory from notable physicians or philosophers. The back cover artwork is described by the name of the person that is quoted if it is a printed version of the artwork, if it is the original artwork – a description of what is depicted in the artwork is used.

Series IC094-S4 : Series IV: Medical Record and Annals;

Date: 1964 - 1968 (creation)

Scope and content: Scope and Content Note: This series contains the original artwork used for Medical Records and Annals front covers, and some photographs used to illustrate articles within the journal issues. Medical Record and Annals was published by The Medical Arts Publishing Foundation from 1964 to 1968, although it had been in existence since 1907. Cover artwork from the journal, called the Texana Collection, had been displayed in several exhibits around Houston, Texas, including Town Hall of Foley's Department Store downtown in 1970 during the 10th International Cancer Congress, and at the Houston Academy of Medicine - Texas Medical Center Library in 1977. The cover artworks are generally paintings and depict historic medical figures or events based in the state of Texas. Artwork that was painted on canvas has been placed in separate boxes.
